Exercises

1. In what ways do pressure groups and movements exert influence on politics?

Answer

Pressure groups and movements exert influence on politics in a variety of ways.

→ They try to gain public support and sympathy for their cause by carrying out information campaigns, organising meetings, filing petitions, etc.

→ By organising strikes and disruptions, they seek to make the government take note of their demands.

→ They also influence decision-making by lobbying.

→ The issues raised by them often influence the policies of political parties.

2. Describe the forms of relationship between pressure groups and political parties?

Answer

The relationship between political parties and pressure groups can take different forms.

3. Explain how the activities of pressure groups are useful in the functioning of a democratic government.

Answer

Pressure groups help in the deepening of democracy. As long as everyone gets the opportunity, putting pressure on the rulers is not an unhealthy activity in a democracy. Governments can often come under undue pressure from a small group of rich and powerful people. Pressure groups perform a useful role of countering this undue influence of reminding the government of the needs and concerns of ordinary citizens.

4. What is a pressure group? Give a few examples.

Answer

A pressure group is an organisation which attempts to influence government policies through protests and demonstrations. Pressure groups are formed when people with similar opinions get together for similar objectives. Examples of pressure groups are FEDECOR and BAMCEF.

5. What is the difference between a pressure group and a political party?
